

Static

Data on the specific plant species and soil type to calibrate sensors

Hydration

Dynamic data recording the moisture content and ph level of the soil as well as how much water the plant is intaking

Growth

Dynamic data recording the growth of the plant through analyzing the chemical composition produced within the growing stages

Stress

Dynamic data monitoring the overall health of the plant by recording the nutrient and chemical compositions